The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1-5, 7, 8, and 19-31 are rejected under 35 USC 102 (a) has been anticipated by Murata. Murata (note figure 1) teaches a substrate and electronic circuit element flip chip bonded on the substrate were in a connection is made by gold- tin bonding between a Electrode of the circuit element and an electrode on said substrate; the connection is sealed between said electronic circuit element and said substrate in a peripheral connection also formed fiv by gold-and bonding and an alloy containing gold and tin is for in each of the connection at the peripheral connection. Note, also, the following paragraphs of Murata: [0100] [0101] [0104] [0119] [0143] [0149] and claim 3.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims six and nine are rejected under 35 USC 103 (a) as being unpatentable over Murata. As discussed in the above rejection of claim one, Murata teaches the basic electronic device. Murata does not explicitly use a metal core, resin substrate. However, selection from a long know, suitable materials has long been held to be within the skill expected of the routineer. Metal core substrates are known per se (official notice taken). One reason they are used is to provide a ground plain for r.f. shielding and enhanced electrical isolation of the component. Thus, for at least these reasons it would have been obvious to what of ordinary skill in the art to use a metal core, resin substrate in Murata.
